Integrated Defense Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics Life Cycle Management System

Following the Materiel Development Decision, the Milestone Decision Authority may authorize entry into the acquisition process at any point, consistent with phase-specific entrance criteria and statutory requirements

This chart is for Defense Acquisition University students. It provides a national distribution of courseware for national defense. Defense acquisition is a complex process with many more activities than those listed and many concurrent activities that cannot be displayed on a single chart. Supporting information is on back of this chart. For more information, see the Defense Acquisition Program (DAP) (http://dap.dau.edu).

Background

Pre-“Cyber”

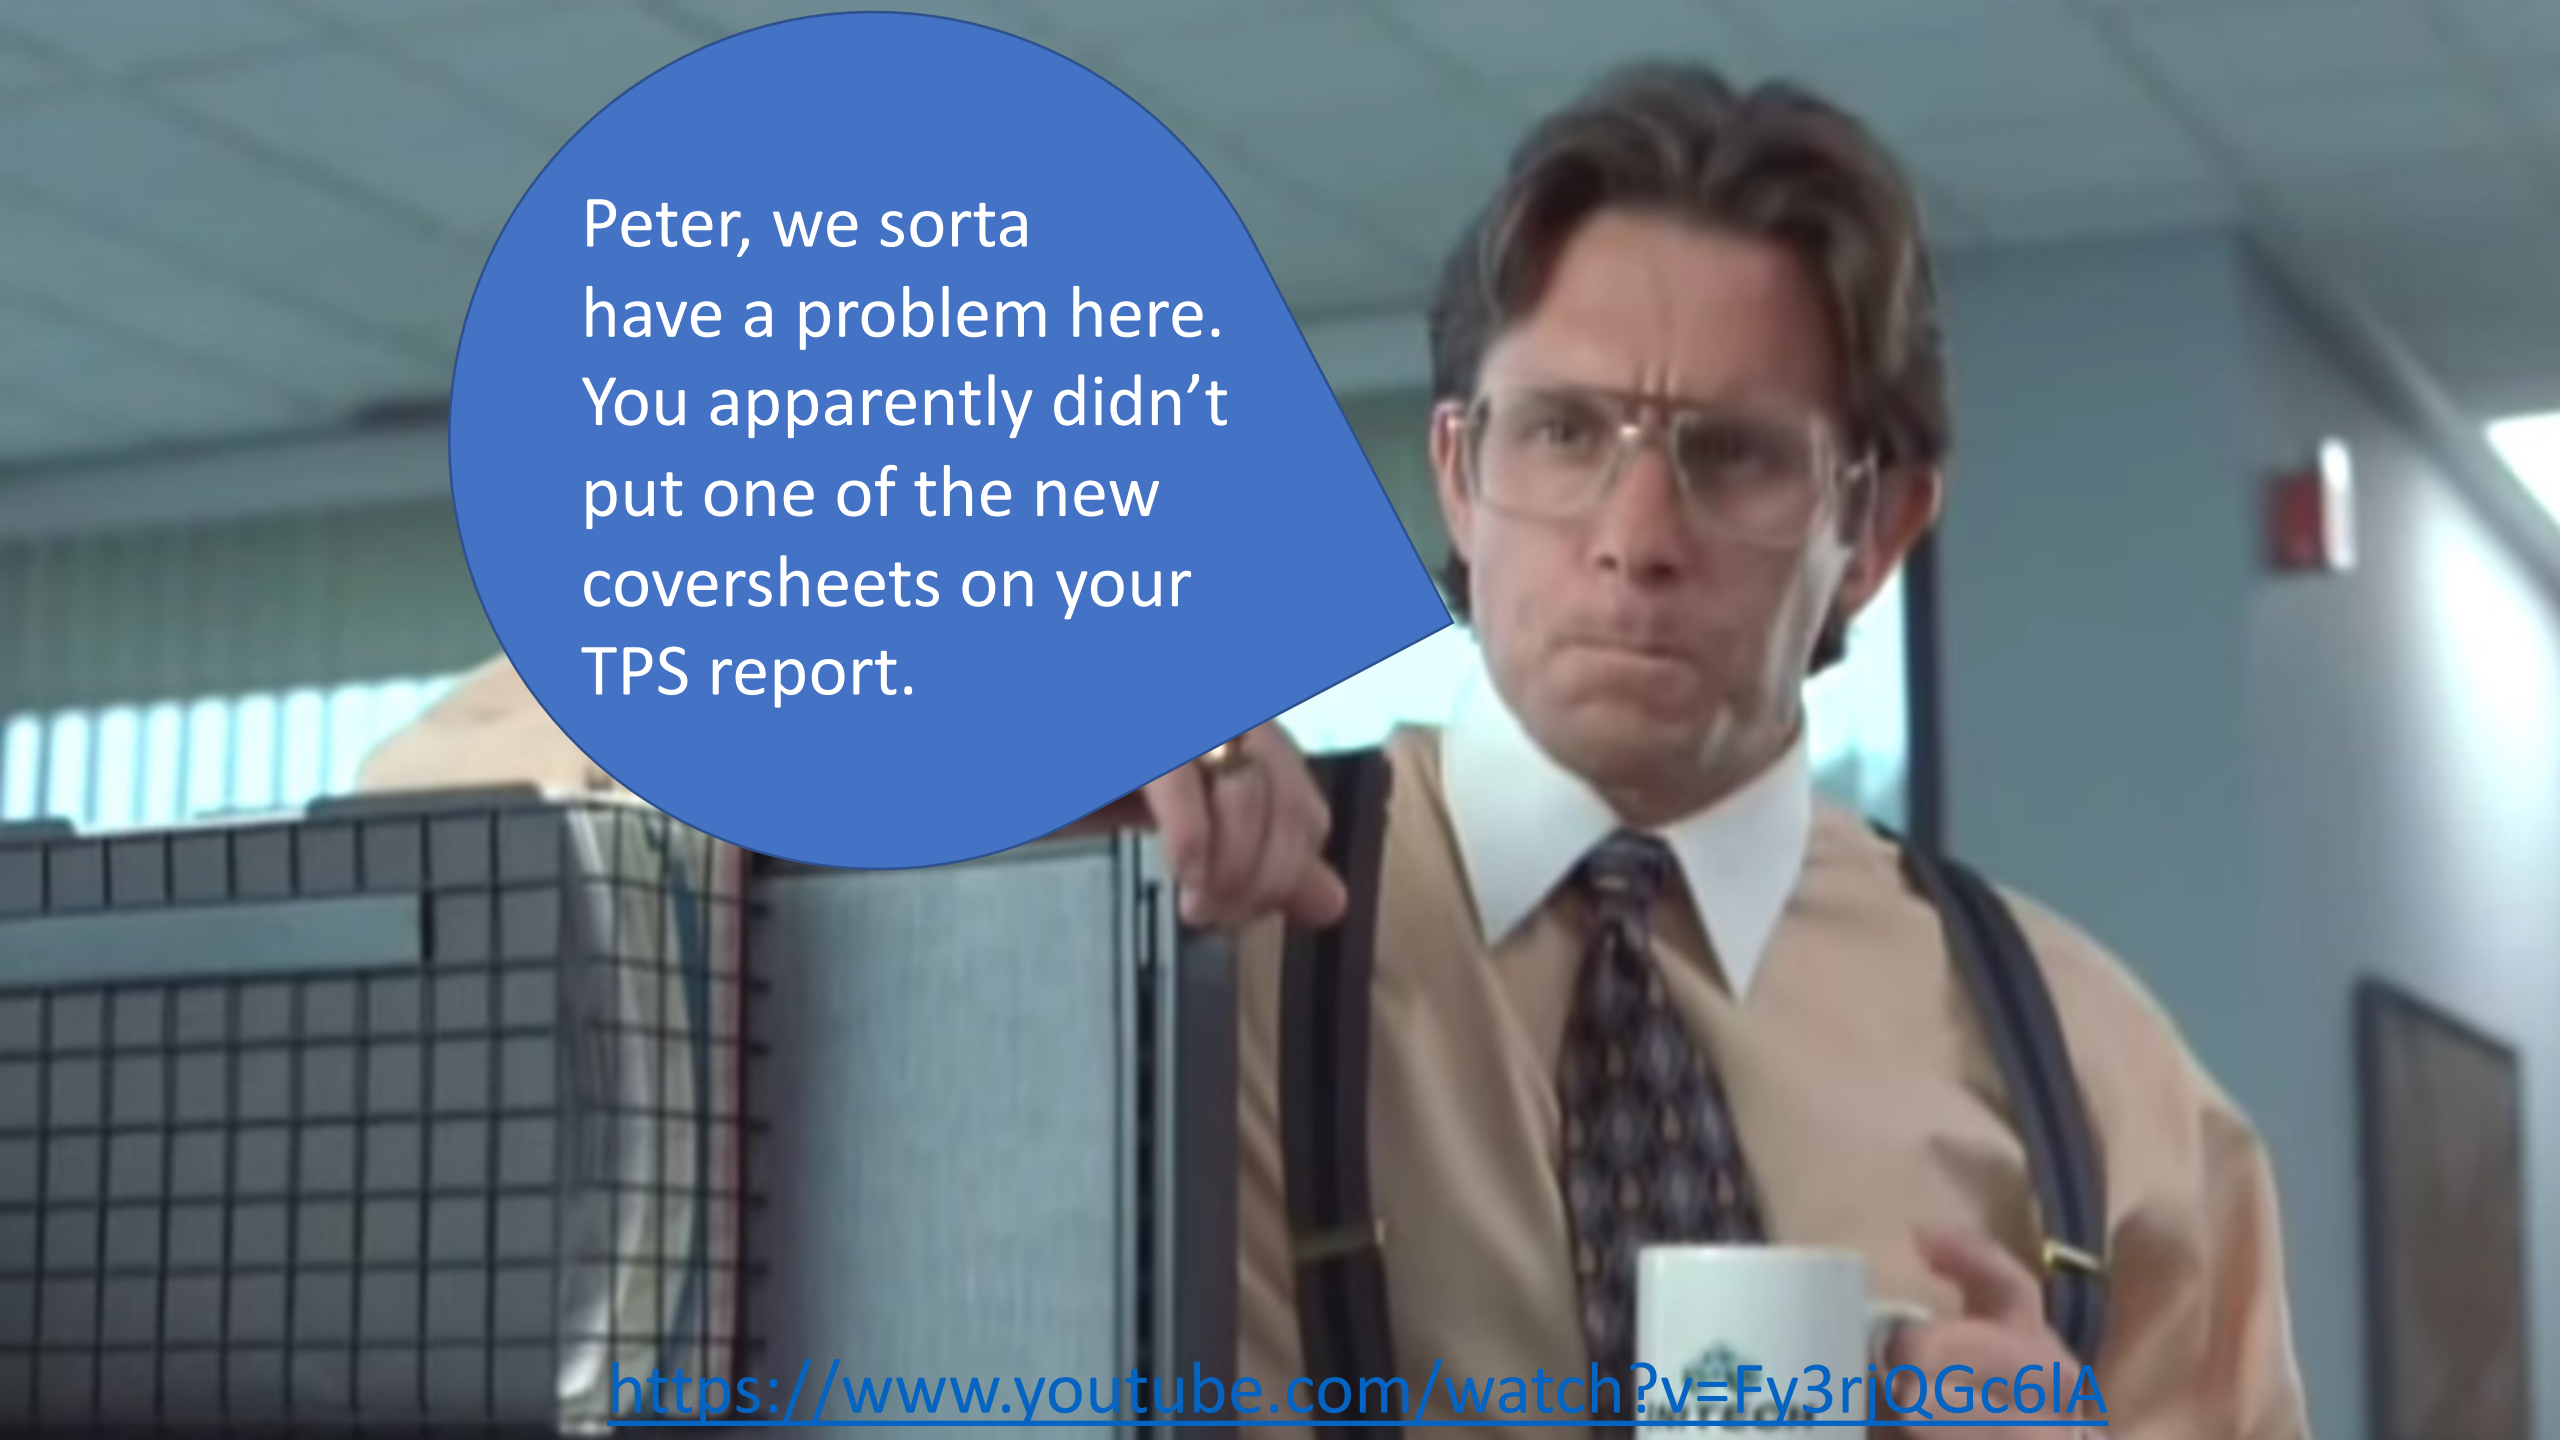

Post-“Cyber”

Post-Army

A man with glasses, wearing a tan shirt, a patterned tie, and suspenders, stands in an office hallway. He has a serious expression and is pointing his right index finger towards the camera. He is holding a white mug in his left hand. The background shows office cubicles and a hallway with a fire alarm pull station on the wall.

Peter, we sorta
have a problem here.
You apparently didn't put one of the new coversheets on your

How Long Does it Take to Cut a Ribbon?

Problem

- Bureaucracies will crush your mission, organization, your people and soul
- Not taught in the classroom
- The mission of cyber in the DoD is essential
- Recruiting, retention, reputation, and mission accomplishment will suffer
- Learning to navigate/hack bureaucracy is essential to operational and professional success
- Bureaucracy in software

DARPA's (Mudge's) Cyber Fast Track

“At DARPA, Mudge hoped to bring his ‘hacker ethos’ to the conservative organization, creating a Cyber Fast Track (CFT) program that gave small grants to more agile individuals and small research groups to provide innovative security technology.”

“Hacking the bureaucracy’ is about being a public-sector entrepreneur. It’s about having an outsized impact, at a scale beyond the resources under your control.”

$$\text{Risk} = \frac{\text{Threats} \times \text{Vulnerabilities} \times \text{Impact}}{\text{Security Controls}}$$

Threats x Vulnerabilities x Impact

- How much power do they have?
- Is there a hidden relationship to be aware of?
- How senior are they?
- Have they been selected for promotion?
- How established are they?
- What is their reputation?
- How are you vulnerable?
- How senior are you?
- How established are you?
- How long until they (or you) move?
- Will you encounter them again, directly or indirectly?
- Assume a `_long_` memory, except when it is short
- Consider intended, and unintended effects.
- What will this do to your reputation?

Security Controls

- How “right” are you?
- How “wrong” are they?
- Do you have top cover?
- Do you have tangible evidence?

I'm talking routine bureaucracy in the following examples.

I'm not referring to EO, EEO, Sexual Harassment where there are deliberate reporting processes in place.

Solves: 98-99.9%

Jumping the chain of command is generally, a bad idea, without good reason

I'm not referring to EO, EEO, Sexual Harassment where there are deliberate reporting processes in place.

Jumping outside the chain of command is generally, a bad idea, without a very good reason

What You as a Leader Can Do

- Shield your people from the bureaucracy so they can focus on the mission
- Don't burn yourself out, you can't boil the ocean by yourself (ablation)
- Don't let organizations under your span of control become part of the problem
- Try to get delegated authority
- Understand there are two sides to every story
- Teach, coach, mentor
- Learn (from your people, a mentor)
- Complement your personality with an opposite type

Beware the Easy Fix

Lean Six Sigma Process Diagram

Relationship Building...

...You Reap What You Sow

Initiative

- Prediction
- Timing
- Speed
- Pictures or it didn't happen

Top Cover

- Keep your boss/champion informed
- Provide updates
- Provide talking points
- Name drop sparingly
- Seek out a senior leader champion

TECHNOBABBLE: THEN AND NOW

Communication

- Speak in the language of your audience
- Many audiences speak military doctrine not quantum physics*
- Tell your story (internally and externally)

*anything technical is considered quantum physics

Budget

What is this? A hammer? No, it is a weapon system.

How much should it cost? $50,000 or $52,382.19? $52,382.19

Seriously though, pay attention to those budget classes at school. They matter. Take your budget stuff seriously. Get into the POM. Your budget will be attacked.

Senior Leader Champions

- Try to have their staff in the room
- Develop multiple champions
- Use the “Easy Button” sparingly
- Office calls
- Preparatory fires
- Keep informed

Senior Leaders

- Are the safety valve of the system
- Commanders/Command NCOs >> Line Leaders
- 4>3>2>1
- NCO<->NCO, WO<->WO
- Easy button
- Have limited political capital and bandwidth
- Don't put them at risk
- Might not be the only ones reading their email
- Definitely not the only ones who can view their calendar
